Behind the Beyond - Billboard Design and Print

Notes: According to Penelope Fried, the title of this signed print is "Behind the Beyond." The image was originally used on a billboard commissioned by Chet Helms of the Family Dog. It was displayed around San Francisco. It is classic Fried, perhaps more representative of his larger fine-art paintings. The billboard, some 20 feet long, was at one time in the possession of Jacaeber Kastor of Psychedelic Solutions Gallery in New York City.

Fried made a limited edition print of this image, signed and numbered. This image in this piece is 9-3/16 x 3-3/4, but printed on a much large sheet of expensive textured paper. You can see the proportions in the thumbnail. Fried's signature is at the bottom right. Because Fried died so young, any signed piece is very rare. This particular piece is even more rare and just exquisite to see in person, this brilliant design inset in a field of white. In my opinion, this is in the top five Fried designs, for sheer elegance.

Grateful Dead at Berkeley Bonaparte - Berkeley, CA

Notes: This is one of at least two posters that Bob Fried designed and had printed on acetate with anoline dyes (I believe). The intent was to have a stained-glass-like appeal. The image does look great against the light, but the problem is the dyes fade when exposed to light very quickly. The result is that any of these posters that have been put up are ruined in short order, with the image being almost non visible.

Those that have been stored in the dark have held up well, and some collectors frame them and place them in a dark part of the house, with a light that can be turned on when you want to view it. The result of all of this is that good copies of this piece are rare and expensive. It is also one of Fried's best images and one of the better all-time images.

Holy Smoke by Bob Fried

Notes: Holy Smoke. Reminiscent of Rick Griffin's "A Puff of Kief..," another homage to pot smoking, this time by artist Robert

Fried. This is a largish poster, printed on semi-glossy stock, was part of Fried's poster company, "The Food," which followed the lead of the successful Berkeley Bonaparte. The image is of a large frog imbibing from a hookah, while seated in a pastoral setting. -

Notes: This poster is #3 in Bob Fried's printing business that he named the "Singing Mothers LSD Relief Society Studio," which predates his poster company, "The Food." This one was for the "Sunset Health Food Store" in San Francisco. Notice the hookah-smoking frog, that appears later in Fried's "Holy Smoke" poster in "The Food" series. - Michael Erlewine

High Mass Is Coming -- Bob Fried Gallery Piece

Notes: Here is a good example of how I like Fried, one of his abstract prints, and very effective. It is important to know that Fried was primarily a painter, and a painter of huge canvases, many 10 or 12 feet across. And most were abstract designs, like the one shown here. This one is called "High Mass is Coming," and is becoming very difficult to find. This is just great art on the wall.
