

ASTROLOGICAL WEATHER
January 11, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

Sun-Moon-Earth

Time for a little update on the current astrological weather conditions.

Macro Level:

The main thing is that we are in transition again, so if you feel things shifting in the direction of being less-clear, then you are clear. They are shifting and your analytical abilities, your ability to grasp what is happening or to organize your direction is at a bit of a low just now. Over the next ten days things will clear up and in ten days to two-weeks our mind will work as we like it to once again. What to do in the interim? Good question. Be patient and find workarounds, although nothing may feel just right for a day or so.

Micro Level:

On a more local time scheme, as of today you should be done with a big push, trying to put something into action from the planning or idea world. Because of what I wrote at the start of this blog you may need to catch your breath and get reoriented a bit before slogging onward. Just let your mind rest a moment and you will feel what to do next. Don't feel obligated to push. Gentle does it. Be mindful.

