

ASTROLOGY NOW: Daily Transits on your Mobile Phone June 3, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

Astrological transits, for those of you who might not be acquainted with them, provide you with a day-by-day reading for what the Sun, Moon, and planets in the sky today say about your natal chart -- what is happening for you. In addition this report also provides transit-to-transit interpretations which are about what is happening astrologically today for all of us. Transits are the very heart of astrology.

You can now access daily transits to your personal natal chart using your iPhone, Android, or other smart phone. You can also run it on your Mac or Windows desktop. Options include Tropical or Sidereal and includes both transit-to-natal aspects and transit-to-transit aspects in a one-month report.

Transits are listed chronologically by month, day, and time and include the aspect's keywords, written interpretation, tarot-like image card, and the astrological jargon.

If you like or use this kind of application, please do let us know about it because it took a long time to create it and make it nice. Do give us some feedback.

Here is how to get your free application. It is just like bookmarking a any website on your mobile phone. On your iPhone or smart phone just type into your browser:

<http://www.astrologyland.com/>

Bookmark it in the normal way and it will always be there. For those of you on desktops (Mac or PC), just enter the following web address:
