[Here is some ad copy on a new and very interesting report]

None of us are perfect. We are born with both talents and needs. We trade on our talents to get what we need. The StarType Strategy report provides in-depth details on your natal StarType plus sections on your particular talents and also what you need, areas of life where you may fall short.

Next, based on your talents and needs, a strategy is outlined based on making the most of your talents and filling in the blank spots of your needs. Learn how to exchange what you have for what you need or want. Also included is a section on how you approach relationships.

StarTypes is the result of more than forty years of research and counseling by veteran astrologer Michael Erlewine. It is unique in joining the centuries-old traditional astrological chart with the modern astronomical and scientific perspective of our solar system. The combination gives a 3D or stereo view of who we are, our talents, and what we want or lack. The full report (for PC users only) is at the following link.
