NATURE PHOTOGRAPHY - E-Book One

Cold, cold, cold here, with lows zero or below each night. Time for me to sit and sort through last year's photos, a long job but it is a long way to spring. It is not like I am retired or anything. I am still running a company; photography is something I like doing when I have free time.

I put together four free e-books that are all photographs for those of you who want to see some nature macro and close-ups larger than what Facebook allows as standard. You can view them online or save them to your hard drive for later viewing.

Let me know if you like them. They can be found here.
