David Singer at 'The Poster' - Los Angeles, CA

Notes: A black and white poster for a gallery show that took place a few months after Fillmore West closed. I sometimes use the design of my name on this poster as a logo. The show, itself, was notable for the fact that BG#287, the poster I designed to commemorate the Closing Week of the Fillmore, was unveiled at this event, with Bill Graham and some of his staff in attendance. Because Graham closed the Fillmore with little advance notice, no poster had been commissioned for the final week of concerts, and the Closing Week poster was a gift to Bill, from his staff and myself, to fill in that blank at the end of the series. The show took place at The Poster, a gallery that specialized in poster art and photography.--

Khepera Ra Mandala
Notes: Devoid of lettering, these 24 inch square posters, printed on heavy stock, are like fine art prints. A fascination with mirror imagery inspired me to make a series of kaleidoscopic montages, four of which were produced by Portal Publications. After I designed a segment of each print, using mirrors to see the whole, the craftsmen at Gregory & Falk, in San Francisco, skillfully pieced each image together with invisible seams. They are perhaps my most magical designs. The scans are mediocre and do not do them justice. -- David Singer

Henry Miller at Big Sur, CA - Big Sur, CA

Notes: Centennial Celebration, with California events in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Big Sur.

The celebration honored Henry Miller's 100th birthday (1891-1991), with events taking place at several California locations: in Los Angeles at the Fowler Museum of UCLA; in San Francisco at the Scottish Rite Temple; and in Big Sur at the Henry Miller Memorial Library (HMML), one of the sponsors of the celebration, along with the University of California Extension. The word "sur" is Spanish for "south," and Big Sur is a long stretch of rugged California coast south of Monterey. In his later years, Miller lived in Big Sur and became one of that art community's most famous residents. The HMML is located a half-mile south of the Nepenthe restaurant, a landmark of the coast highway. The poster illustration shows Miller posing in the library, and the pictures on the wall are from the library's archive. The largest picture is the artist, Emil White, a close friend of Miller who willed his property and house, nestled among splendid redwoods, to establish the memorial - to the left of Miller is a picture of Jerry Kamstra, the library's writer-in-residence (Frisco Kid, Weed) when this poster was made - at the

The Graphic Art of David Singer, Spirit of the New Millennium
Notes: This poster of a Spiral Dragon was designed and self-published by David Singer, in 1996, to commemorate the New Millennium Celebration of 2000. The many spirals of the patterned background represent the turning of a thousand individual years, while the large spiraling dragon represents the big turn of the millennium, itself. The dragon graphic was originally designed, in the 1980s, to grace an album cover of a Japanese rock band called Mariah, but the group disbanded before the album was released.

Notes: Signed and Numbered Edition of 600.

This print depicts a fantasy gallery gathering of rock poster aficionados. On the wall are shown various dance posters of the 1960s designed by well known artists of the period for the famous Avalon Ballroom, in San Francisco, run by a group of hippies known as The Family Dog. The montage is a humorous representation of actual art shows sponsored by a California organization of poster collectors known as TRPS (or "trips"), an acronym of The Rock Poster Society.

Notes: This poster commemorates a series of concerts over the New Year holidays of 2001-2002, at Bill Graham Civic Auditorium, San Francisco, California. The theme of this event, Superheroes Ball, prompted the illustration of a Rock-It superheroine holding the Sun and ushering in the New Year as she sends a beam of cosmic energy down to San Francisco, the symbol in the Sun being the band's SCI logo. The featured bands on the poster, besides String Cheese Incident, are G. Love & Special Sauce, Taj Mahal & the Phantom Blues Band, and Keller Williams, with Magical Adventures by Peak Experience Productions.

America Be Vigilant by David Singer

Notes: AMERICAN BE VIGILANT - 2003 (18 x 24 inches).

Published by Classic Posters, this poster shows a young woman as a vigilant Spirit of Liberty. She wears the traditional Liberty Cap and is wrapped in the Stars-and-Stripes of the American Flag, before a great American Eagle with wings outspread. The scene behind her is a famous painting by the artist Erastus Salisbury Field (1805-1900), titled "The Historical Monument of the American Republic." Field's monumental vision, painted on a 9 x 13 foot canvas - now displayed at the Museum of Fine Art, in Springfield, Massachusetts - is a series of towers covered with panels depicting important events in the history of America and the United States, and standing along the top of the towers are rows of angels holding American flags. The poster reads AMERICA BE VIGILANT and UNITED WE STAND at the top, and below, ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS THE PRICE OF LIBERTY, the well known maxim attributed to John P. Curran, in 1790.
