

GATHERING THIS FRIDAY
November 30, 2011

By Michael Erlewine (Michael@Erlewine.net)

In the next few days I want to show you some of the reasons you might want to get out of the house this coming Friday and come on down to the Ann Arbor District Library for a gathering.

For one, we are all getting older. "Ain't but a few of us left," as the old saying goes. John Sinclair and I are both seventy years old and many of the other folks who will be at the opening are not far behind.

Here is a chance to meet poet and activist John Sinclair in person, legendary poster artist Gary Grimshaw, in person, music promoter Peter Andrews in person, photographer Leni Sinclair in person, and many others from back in the day who will turn up. This kind of gathering does not happen often. In fact, I can't remember having all of the above people in the same room with me, ever.

And not only will there be a short talk on Michigan posters by yours truly but after that something more like a party, with refreshments and a chance to meet and greet all these folks. See and be seen!

Gary Grimshaw is one of the great poster artists of the whole Sixties and Seventies era. Just look at the enclosed image. Grimshaw did scores of them and there will be dozens of the actual Grimshaw posters matted, framed, and on display along with the rock music photos of Leni Sinclair.

The ROCK & REVOLUTION exhibit opens this Friday, December 2, 2011 at the multi-purpose room of the main downtown Ann Arbor Library (343 South Fifth Avenue) at 7 PM. See you there!
